$75,000 grant for 2019 Gold Cup Regatta

The Madison Regatta and Roostertail Music Festival will receive a $75,000 grant for its 2019 events — $25,000 more than last year — after Madison's Board of Public Works at its Monday meeting approved an agreement with the Indiana Economic Development Corporation. This year — the 69th running of the Madison Regatta— will be the first time in 39 years for the Gold Cup race to be here. The Gold Cup was front and center as city officials gathered with Regatta members after the vote. From left: City Clerk-Treasurer Rick Berry, Director of Community Relations Andrew Forrester, Kim True, 2018 Miss Regatta Karrington True, Council member Darrell Henderson, Regatta President Matt True, Mayor Damon Welch, Curtis Chatham, Board of Public Works member David Carlow, Cheryl Lion, Roger Snell, Kim Washer, John Knoebel and Nate Davis. PLANTING NEW LIFE

By PEGGY VLEREBOME
Special to The Courier

Saturday started with a long mound of barren soil and ended with the beginning of the newest and last addition to a 21,487-tree forest at Arvin Sango.

The sixth and final planting drew an estimated 330 volunteer planters — including families, scouts, 4-H youth, groups from schools and churches, people needing community-service hours, friends and Arvin Sango employees — to Arvin Sango's manifold plant on Wilson Avenue.

It was a festive event with face-painting, raptor exhibits and live animals such as rabbits and a Eurasian eagle owl, drawings for prizes, a DJ, large tents, lunch, cold water, sunscreen and above all, 4,000 trees to plant.

The advance preparation work was detailed. Some of the dirt on the mound—which was built last year with compost mixed into the dirt — had been loosened before the planters arrived to make it easier to dig holes, especially for children.

Firecracker 10k Walk/Run

Course change for 2019 annual Courier race

Courier staff report

The course for this year's Madison Courier Firecracker 10K Walk/Run is changing because of road work scheduled to begin next week on Hanging Rock Hill.

"We are running a little late on planning because we had the hill closure thrown at us right as we were starting to plan this year's race," said Curt Jacobs, publisher of The Madison Courier. "We looked at routes to finish at Lytle Park, but were not comfortable with any alternatives. The state hospital grounds are scenic so we are happy to keep the course there. This is a much flatter course and it will be interesting to see what people think of it. I think participants and spectators will enjoy finishing on the track."

The start will still be at Madison Consolidated High School on Madison's hilltop.

The course will take this year's runners and walkers from the high school, around Madison Junior High School to Wilson Avenue, then to the Madison State

Hanging Rock Hill to close around May 28

A $2.1 million slide correction and asphalt resurfacing project on a 3.5-mile section of Indiana 7 — including Hanging Rock Hill — will begin on or after May 28, weather permitting.

The project will close Hanging Rock Hill from Paddy's Lane at the south end of the hill to Terrace Drive on the north for approximately 90 days for slide correction work, the Indiana Department of Transportation said.

The official state detour for the closure is Indiana 56/ Hanover Hill to Indiana 62/Clifty Drive, INDOT said.

The work will include stabilizing sliding roadway by installing steel bars reinforced with concrete into the hillside.

After completion of the slide correction, asphalt resurfacing and preventive maintenance will take place from Main Street downtown (Indiana 56) to Industrial Drive on Madison's hilltop. Lane closures will be in effect after completion of the slide correction, beginning at the south end and moving north as paving crews progress.

Motorists should expect delays along the route while paving is taking place. All work is expected to be complete by Nov. 1.

Navy vessel on Ohio River for D-Day 75th anniversary

Indiana

EVANSVILLE — A restored World War II naval vessel will move to a more prominent location along the Ohio River in Evansville in commemoration of the 75th anniversary of D-Day. The LST 325 troop landing ship will be docked at the former site of the Tropicana Evansville casino boat June 6-9. Free tours of the ship will be offered. The ship took part in the 1944 D-Day landings in France and was brought back to the U.S. from Greece in 2001 to be restored. The Evansville Courier & Press reports city officials had hoped to have the ship permanently moved there by the D-Day anniversary, but a number of delays have postponed that from happening until the end of the year. The ship has been docked a few miles upriver since 2005.

Indy police probe death of baby in SUV

INDIANAPOLIS — Police are investigating the death of a baby who was left in a vehicle on a day in the middle 80s. Officers and medics who were called to an auto parts store Saturday on the city's east side found the child unresponsive inside a sport-utility vehicle. The child was pronounced dead at Riley Children's Hospital. The Indianapolis Star reported the baby was believed to be with the mother while another person went inside the store, but police would not say where the mother was when the call for help was placed or who made that call. A coroner will do an autopsy to determine the baby's cause of death. Police have not disclosed the child's age or gender.

30 years in slaying of man in concrete

INDIANAPOLIS — A man has been sentenced to 30 years in prison for a slaying where the victim's body was found buried beneath concrete. Jason Hancock, 49, of Brownsburg was sentenced Friday on charges stemming from the February 2018 killing of Michael Marks, 41. Hancock initially faced a murder charge, but he pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter, abuse of a corpse and unlawful possession of a firearm by a serious violent felon. Marks' body was found in March 2018 buried beneath concrete inside a warehouse on Indianapolis' northwest side. Court documents state that a witness told Indianapolis police that Hancock suspected that Marks had stolen items from the warehouse while Hancock was in jail and that he lured him there and shot him.

Preserve re-opening with new boardwalk

ELLETTSVILLE — A nature preserve is re-opening with a new boardwalk for visitors to cross through a marsh area. The boardwalk goes for a half-mile on a 1.5 mile loop trail through the Beanblossom Bottoms Nature Preserve near Bloomington. The preserve was closed last summer so Sycamore Land Trust volunteers and contractors could build the elevated boardwalk with nonslip plastic decking. Sycamore's Chris Fox told The (Bloomington) Herald-Times that 550 posts were set into the marshy ground, with ramps and turnarounds built to make it more accessible to people with limited mobility. The group said the area is home to some of Indiana's endangered species, including the Indiana bat, Kirtland's snake, crawfish frog and rare orchids.

Global engineering firm plans expansion

COLUMBUS — A company that provides global engineering and technology integration services is planning an expansion at its headquarters. Officials announced Monday that Columbus-based LHP Engineering Solutions plans to invest more than $1 million in building and office improvements as well as in hardware and software. Plans call for creating up to 135 new jobs by 2023. The company employs about 190 people in Columbus and nearly 480 worldwide. The Indiana Economic Development Corp. has offered LHP Engineering Solutions up to $1.6 million in conditional tax credits based on the company's job creation plans.

Summer start possible for convention center

TERRE HAUTE — Construction is expected to start this summer on a new downtown Terre Haute convention center. A timeline presented to the Vigo County Capital Improvement Board calls for construction bids to be opened June 11 and awarded possibly later that month. Steve Bauer of project manager Nations Group said that if financing and property acquisition go smoothly, construction work could start July 19. The (Terre Haute) Tribune-Star reported the Vigo County Council has approved a $22 million bond sale and $5 million in local income tax revenue toward the project. Plans call for a 42,800-square-foot facility with a main ballroom capable of hosting dinners for 900 people.

STATE BRIEFS

Convictions upheld in bridge arsons

ROCKPORT — The state appeals court has upheld the 90-year prison sentence for a man convicted of setting fires that destroyed one wooden covered bridge in western Indiana and damaged another. The court rejected arguments from Jesse Payne's lawyers that he was improperly found guilty but mentally ill despite testimony from doctors during his Parke County trial that he is schizophrenic and was insane when the fires happened. Payne was convicted on two arson counts for fires that destroyed the Jeffries Ford Bridge in 2002 and damaged the Bridgeton Covered Bridge in 2005. He was convicted of attempted arson for trying set fire to the Mansfield Covered Bridge in 2005. Payne was found competent to stand trial in 2017 after several years of treatment at the Logansport State Hospital.

More than 100 acres of farmland reforested

HUNTERTOWN — A conservation group said it planted 55,000 native hardwood saplings this spring on more than 100 acres of marginal farmland. ACRES Land Trust said Wednesday that the reforesting efforts at three of its nature preserves represent the most trees it has planted in a single year. The organization credits planning, donors and volunteer support for its brisk tree-planting pace. The Journal Gazette reported that the group reforested 80 acres of the Walter H. and E. Marie Myers Nature Preserve near the northern Indiana community of Chili, 17 acres of the James P. Covell Nature Preserve near Auburn and nine acres at the James M. & Patricia D. Barrett Nature Preserve near Huntertown. Since 2016, the nonprofit has reforested 165 acres by planting nearly 100,000 trees at six nature preserves.

Howe Military Academy campus listed for sale

HOWE — A military school that's shutting down is now up for sale. A real estate company has put a $4 million asking price on the 63-acre site of Howe Military Academy. The Zacher Co. lists the site with 26 buildings and a solar farm and suggests it could be used for education, a retirement facility, recreation, as a religious institution or rehabilitation center. Leaders cited declining enrollment for their decision in March to close the 135-year-old school in the town of Howe, about 50 miles north of Fort Wayne. Its final graduation ceremony is set for June 1. The campus includes an Italianate-style mansion built in 1876 that was the home of school namesake John Badlam Howe and is listed as endangered by the Indiana Landmarks preservation group.

Illinois man dies while working on sign

DYER — Authorities say a contract worker from Illinois has died while working on an electronic sign at a restaurant in northwestern Indiana. The (Northwest Indiana) Times reported crews responded Sunday to Pop's Italian Beef & Sausage in Dyer on Sunday to a call about a possible electrocution. The Lake County, Indiana, coroner's office said in a statement that Terry Mirkov, 62, of Crete, Illinois, died. The coroner's office said the cause of death is pending. Dyer Police Commander Don Foley said they're asking for anyone who saw what happened to contact investigators.

Kentucky

4 men charged in child predator sting

FRANKFORT— Attorney General Andy Beshear said four men have been charged in a child predator sting. Beshear announced in a news release the arrests last week of Jarrett Hoskins, 23, Ricky Cornish Jr., 32, Joseph Leavitt, 34, and Michael Stewart, 46. Hoskins was charged with promoting child trafficking. He and the others were charged with using electronic devices to induce a minor to engage in sexual or other prohibited activities. Stewart also is charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. The Franklin County commonwealth's attorney is handling the prosecution.

2 sentenced for stealing money from relatives

LEXINGTON— Two men have been sentenced to prison in separate cases involving stealing money from older relatives and spending it on themselves. U.S. Attorney Robert Duncan said in a news release that Paul Anthony Long II was sentenced in federal court in Lexington to three years and six months and John Jerome O'Hara was sentenced to two years. The statement says both Lexington residents abused their powers of attorney over a relative's finances and pleaded guilty to fraud charges. According to their plea agreements, Long took more than $600,000 from his grandfather, while O'Hara took more than $330,000 from his mother.

New drug trial ordered after questions

LEXINGTON — A federal appellate panel has ordered a new trial and reversed a couple's drug convictions partly because a prosecutor cited their beliefs in a religious figure regarded as the patron saint of drug dealers and as the angel of the poor. According to the Courier Journal, an opinion this week by a 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals three-judge panel said the attacks regarding beliefs in "Jesús Malverde" were "utterly irrelevant to the question of guilt." The opinion said Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger West likely used Luis Morales-Montanez's beliefs to paint him as someone steeped in drug culture. Morales-Montanez and Jessica Acosta were convicted in Eastern Kentucky federal court of distributing $20,000 worth of methamphetamine. West and a U.S. attorney's office spokesman didn't respond to the newspaper's requests for comment.

University of Kentucky to continue recycling

LEXINGTON — A decision by one city to suspend paper recycling won't affect the University of Kentucky or nearby cities and counties. The Lexington Herald-Leader reported Rumpke said it is trying to find a buyer for recycled paper and urged the governments it serves to continue recycling paper. The local governments include Montgomery County, Mount Sterling, Midway, Stamping Ground, Woodford County and Paris. The private company also has some customers in parts of Scott, Fayette and Clark counties. Lexington announced last week it was suspending paper recycling because of a lack of buyers for recycled paper goods. The city's recycling center serves 17 cities, counties and schools, including the University of Kentucky. The university said Friday that it recycles paper on campus and has found a center

House explodes, kills 1, hurts 2 in Jeff; cause probed

JEFFERSONVILLE, Indiana (AP) — An explosion leveled a home in Jeffersonville early Sunday, killing one person, injuring two others and leaving several nearby homes uninhabitable, authorities said.

The explosion shattered windows across a Jeffersonville neighborhood and sent debris flying onto roofs, lawns and cars. Officials had not said before deadline what they believe caused the explosion.

Indiana State Police, Jeffersonville police and firefighters were at the scene, along with crews from Vectren, a natural gas provider.

Jeffersonville police Lt. Isaac Parker told the Courier-Journal that the house exploded just before 5 a.m. Sunday. He said one person was killed and two others were hospitalized with serious injuries.

Officials haven't said if the victims were inside the house that exploded. Aerial footage showed the home's foundation and what appears to be its basement, covered with debris.

The images were reminiscent of photos after a house explosion in an Indianapolis neighborhood in December 2012 that killed two people and damaged or destroyed more than 80 homes. Authorities concluded that Mark Leonard had tampered with a gas line to blow up his girlfriend's home so they could claim insurance money.

Leonard died in prison last year.

Sgt. Jason Ames with the Jeffersonville Fire Department said the explosion Sunday had affected about 20 homes in the Capitol Hills neighborhood. He said the explosion was felt up to five miles away and that the house where it occurred suffered "catastrophic" damage.

Ames did not immediately return a phone message seeking additional details.

Fire Chief Eric Hedrick said the house where the blast occurred was largely destroyed and five to six nearby homes were left uninhabitable because of damage.

William Short, who lives across the street from the house that exploded, said he was in bed when he heard the explosion.

He said he looked outside and saw what appeared to be fireworks before a second blast shattered his windows, blew off his front door and cracked his ceilings. Short looked outside again and saw from the light of a burning car that his neighbor's home was gone.

"You don't never think you're going to wake up and see your neighbor's house completely gone," he told The Courier-Journal.

Bevin facing test; it's primary election day in Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Kentucky (AP) — Republican Gov. Matt Bevin has lashed out at protesting teachers and ridiculed judges during a tumultuous term steering Kentucky on a conservative course while struggling to fix pension problems.

Now the pugnacious governor faces the first test of his re-election campaign in a race that could offer clues about the mood of the electorate heading into a presidential election year.

Voters get to speak Tuesday.

In a state recently dominated by the GOP, Democrats see an opportunity to win back the governorship because of Bevin's self-inflicted political damage, including a caustic feud with public school teachers.

Three prominent Democrats, including the son of Bevin's predecessor, are competing for the chance to challenge Bevin, who shares a style similar to President Donald Trump's. The two Republican businessmen are proudly unconventional conservatives who favor social media and attack critics fiercely.

Bevin plays up his ties to Trump, who won Kentucky overwhelmingly in 2016 and remains a political force in the bluegrass state.

"You could like me or dislike me," Bevin said recently. "You could like or dislike this president. But I'm telling you, you want the governor of your state to have a good, personal friendship with the president of the United States. It doesn't hurt your state."

The fight for Kentucky's top political job could be an early test of where both political parties stand with voters heading into the 2020 presidential election contests — something Bevin hopes works to his benefit.

"You hear a lot about what's coming in 2020 and it's true," he told the National Rifle Association recently. "But I'm the proxy for what's going to happen in 2020 as they (Democrats) experiment in Kentucky in 2019. So if you happen to want to get engaged in the political process, to stand in the gap in this year in advance of the big year next year, I know a guy. I know a guy in Kentucky who would be grateful for your help."

But the primary could signal whether Bevin has fence-mending to do within his own party.

Bevin ran a low-key primary campaign touting low unemployment and job growth, but he was the prime target for Democrats seeking his job.

His most bitter political nemesis, state Attorney General Andy Beshear, was seen as the Democratic front-runner since the campaign started. Beshear's father is a popular former two-term governor.

Beshear faced tough challenges from ex-state auditor Adam Edelen and longtime state Rep. Rocky Adkins in the Democratic primary.

Beshear played up his many courtroom fights with Bevin's administration over education and pension issues. He filed the lawsuit that led the Kentucky Supreme Court to strike down a Bevin-backed pension law on procedural grounds last year. The pension issue remains unresolved despite a Republican-dominated legislature.

Adkins, a longtime Democratic leader in the state House, said his rural, moderate credentials put him in the best position to win back Democrats who switched to the GOP. Edelen embraced a progressive agenda and vowed to transform Kentucky's economy. He cited his role in developing a massive solar power project on a former Appalachian coal mine.

Bevin, who ran as an insurgent outsider before winning the state's chief executive office, now faces an insurgent challenger of his own. State Rep. Robert Goforth is the best known of three Bevin challengers in Tuesday's primary.

Goforth shares Bevin's socially conservative beliefs, but the challenger tried to capitalize on the governor's public spats with teachers.

Bevin has sharply criticized teachers who used sick days to rally at Kentucky's Capitol, forcing some school districts to close.

In 2018, he asserted without evidence that a child who had been left home alone was sexually assaulted on a day of mass school closings as Kentucky teachers rallied. He apologized but then doubled down last month, connecting a young girl's shooting in Louisville with school closings caused by more teacher protests.

Kentucky teachers rallied last year to oppose pension changes and to demand more funding for schools. Protests continued this year against some education measures. The demonstrations were part of a nationwide wave of teacher activism.

Bevin has happily signed conservative bills sent to him by the state's GOP-dominated legislature. They included a charter schools bill, a right-to-work measure letting workers evade union fees, a bill to let people carry a concealed handgun without a permit or training, and a series of restrictions on abortion. Several of the abortion measures are bottled up in court fights.

Bevin has aggressively tried to impose new rules for Kentucky's Medicaid program to require "able-bodied" adult recipients to get a job, go to school or volunteer. A federal judge blocked the rules and Bevin's administration appealed. The governor defiantly said he wouldn't let a "rogue" judge dictate Kentucky's workforce development agenda.

In another court-related tiff, Bevin went on talk radio and called a state judge an "incompetent hack."

But Bevin's biggest fight has been to shore up Kentucky's massively underfunded public pension systems. He called lawmakers back into a special session last year after his loss at the state Supreme Court, but lawmakers left without passing a replacement pension measure.

Bevin wants to call a special legislative session soon to take up another pension-relief bill. Legislative leaders told him to make sure he has the votes to pass it. Bevin has yet to set a date as primary voters go to the polls.

Shooting wounds 7 near Ball State, 3 critically hurt

MUNCIE, Indiana (AP) — A shooting at an off-campus party near Ball State University early Saturday left seven people injured, three of them critically, police said.

It's not clear how many people might have opened fire, but police said one man was in custody. One of the wounded was airlifted to a hospital in Indianapolis, about 50 miles southwest of Muncie.

Police Chief Joe Winkle told WXIN-TV it appears the shooting happened after "some kind of confrontation inside the house." Some of the victims were Ball State students, he said.

"I think anytime you have a DJ and you get word out there that there's a party there, you are gonna draw a bunch of different people from all over town, so I think that's probably what's happened," Winkle said.

VaShaun Harnett, 19, of Muncie, was arrested and charged with two counts of attempted murder, police told The (Muncie) Star Press.

Harnett is not a Ball State student, the university said in a statement. One of the shooting victims is a student who has been treated and released from a Muncie hospital, the statement said.

"Keeping all members of our campus community safe is a top priority," University President Geoffrey S. Mearns said. "This is a very unfortunate event. We wish all the victims a full and prompt recovery."

Stella East, a Ball State sophomore and a Muncie native, told The Star Press that she was in the home's backyard when the shooting took place. She said about 50 people were inside and 50 outside when she and a friend heard five to 10 shots from inside the house. After a brief pause, they heard about 30 more shots, moving from inside to outside.

"Everyone just ran in opposite ways when the shooting started. I just grabbed my friends and ran as far as I could. I was trying to stay calm but knew it was very serious and just had to get away," East said.

Ball State issued a campus alert shortly after the shootings warning members of the university community to stay clear of the area.

The university said it was making counselors available to assist the campus community in dealing with the shootings.

Jail didn't properly probe claims, report

SANDY HOOK — A state investigator said state prison officials in Elliott County didn't properly investigate allegations that a prison supervisor was sexually harassing guards. The Lexington Herald-Leader reported the Kentucky Personnel Board released a report on the investigations last week. It said a Little Sandy Correctional Complex staffer tasked with investigating the claims wasn't trained for such investigations, didn't interview potential witnesses and asked limited questions. Sgt. Stephen Harper was accused in 2013 and 2014 of masturbating near a guard, grabbing and rubbing against guards, kissing one and forcing one to touch his genitals. He denied the allegations, was never disciplined and left the prison in November. The women sued and settled with the department for $1.5 million in 2017. They settled with Harper privately.

Large fire damages lake marina

MONTICELLO — A large fire has damaged a Lake Cumberland marina. News outlets report the fire at Conley Bottom Resort in Monticello started around 2 a.m. Monday. Firefighters say no one was injured. Marina co-owner Freddie Piercy told WKYT-TV that the marina plans to be open for Memorial Day weekend.

Messy; slows progress!

Madison County solar farm debate is democracy at work

From the (Anderson) Herald Bulletin

It's messy. It slows progress. It renders everything difficult. It roils confrontation.

And it's the way grassroots democracy should work.

That's the character of the debate over the proposed 120-megawatt, 850-acre Lone Oak Solar Farm in Madison County.

Credit opponents of the project with demanding setbacks that would keep the farm from encroaching on the bucolic view from their homes, and for raising questions about property values, environmental concerns and land-use practices.

Credit proponents for speaking up for their right to lease their land for whatever legal purposes they choose, for the right to make a profit and for the development of clean energy solutions.

And credit the members of the Madison County Board of Zoning Appeals for delaying a decision on variance requests so that members of the public can learn more about the project, ask the tough questions and make their opinions known.

Some have lamented the controversy caused by the solar farm proposal, noting that it's turned neighbor against neighbor.

That can be disheartening, but when the controversy passes — and it might bring legal challenges before it's over — we trust that the neighborly folks of Madison County will shake hands and respect one another.

Until that time, folks have the right to stand up and make themselves heard.

Invenergy, which would build the solar park, is a big power company with lots of money and attorney power. And sometimes a community will roll over in the face of such an organization.

But it's better to challenge what they say and what they're offering.

Invenergy stands to make hundreds of millions of dollars off this project, and the company ought to make a big-time commitment to local schools, to 4-H, to economic development and other local interests.

Sometimes it doesn't seem like Hoosier hospitality, when a visitor like Invenergy comes in, to ask for more than they're offering. But local folks should, in this case. If the community is truly to be the company's partner, the company should share its bounty generously.

The company has shown that it will modify its project to address opponents' concerns, already offering to increase setbacks from non-participant property to 250 feet. That's a far cry from the county minimum of 50 feet.

And it's enough for a nice buffer of trees and other vegetation to shield residences from a face-full of solar panels. But maybe the company would agree to more, and opponents are now asking for 500 feet.

As this debate continues — the BZA has scheduled another hearing for May 28 — it becomes more important for people on both sides to do as much listening as talking.

For democracy also depends on good-faith compromise and a willingness to move away from entrenchment.

Desperation; dibs on my chair

By GAYLE R. ROBBINS
Vincennes Sun-Commercial

Something happened this week that doesn't happen very often: I missed a few days of work. Although technically, that's not quite true. For these days work will track you down, and with a vengeance yank you back into harness.

So I worked from home, in my sweatpants and an old hat, sipping hot tea and munching on oranges while straining through rheumy eyes to read and edit copy, coughing and wheezing my way through the latest AP budgets, wondering, the way things were going, whether I'd soon enough be doing my own obituary.

A week ago Friday my allergies launched an all-out attack; my body was like Antietam, casualties as far as the eye could see.

I have hay fever, although I've come to prefer the 15th century description of my ailment: the catarrh.

I got that from an E.B. White piece in The New Yorker, "Daniel Webster, the Hay Fever, and Me," later republished in his collection, "One Man's Meat," under the more-to-the-point title: "The Summer Catarrh."

Webster was one of the greats of his time, his name written prominently all over the first 75 years of the country's history. He was 50 when struck with the catarrh, which he came to treat with ice — and whiskey poured over it.

That was also about the time he started to slip: "Why did all manly gifts in Webster fail?/ He wrote on Nature's grandest bow, For Sale," Emerson ultimately said of him.

I say it was probably the catarrh.

White, too, was a sufferer. He showed early symptoms and a physician was called in for a diagnosis and recommendation for treatment; he thought a bit and then prescribed dousing the young White's head in cold water every morning before breakfast.

White would later recall that after two years of such care the only result was a loss of the natural oil in his hair.

Like White, I was probably around 5 or 6 when I started noticing that, at certain times of the year, something with my body went wrong and I became miserable. It would come towards the end of August and continue until the first good frost.

When I was really young I spent many a lonely night sitting on the couch, unable to breathe, wondering what I'd done to deserve this. Later on, Labor Days would be spent stretched out on that same couch, stuffed up, miserable, the only thing to watch on TV the Chicago Cubs playing a doubleheader — and wondering what the heck I'd done to deserve that!

The medicines of the time were more along the lines of knock-out drugs; I think the idea was that if I'd gotten a good-night's sleep I'd be better able to suffer through the day, although the requisite "good night's sleep" never came and I'd be like a zombie for the first half of the day.

Gayle R. Robbins

A few years ago my college alumni magazine solicited from those of us with known literary aspirations our favorite back-to-school memories. I'm sure what was wanted were "back-to-campus" memories, but I took the opportunity to dig back further and recall just how tired I always was during those first weeks of the new school year — which, now that I think about, applied in both cases.

In my early 30's, my catarrh mysteriously all but disappeared. It would suddenly be mid-September and there was nothing — no wheezing, no sneezing, no watery eyes.

That lasted until my late-40's when, one by one, the symptoms started returning — only now it could be any time of the year, even the middle of winter, when they struck, either in tandem or alone.

One winter my coughing was so bad that co-workers here began wondering if I was going to make it. I am still not sure whether they were genuinely concerned or they had a pool going.

One Saturday, in the early afternoon, I was working here in the office, thinking I was alone, when I was seized by a tremendous a fit of coughing. Now, I'd developed a sort of theory that if I coughed as hard as I could, put some real force into it, I could somehow expel whatever was causing the coughing right out of my body.

Desperate men will take desperate measures when in desperate straits.

So I really let loose, in such a spasm that it left me grabbing my desk with both hands and rocking back and forth in my chair.

When things finally started to come into focus I turned and looked, and in the doorway there was one of our ad reps.

"Just so you know," she said, pointing down at it, "when you finally do go, I have dibs on your chair."

Driving dreams torpedoed by Mom's 'sensible car'

BY BUD HERRON

In the summer of 1960, I learned to drive my mother's green, 1948 Pontiac Torpedo Deluxe Sedan.

Mom had not intended to own such an upscale automobile, but her brother needed cash (as he usually did when he stopped by our house smelling like Old Crow) and sold the mechanical marvel to her for $150 and two jars of apple butter.

"The Torpedo" had around 160,000 miles on it — only about 150,000 more miles than the warranty covered, and only about 75,000 more miles than the national record for operation without a complete engine overhaul. It was quite a bargain. Standard features included an on-the-column manual gear shift with a transmission that required a double pumping of the clutch when going from low to second gear.

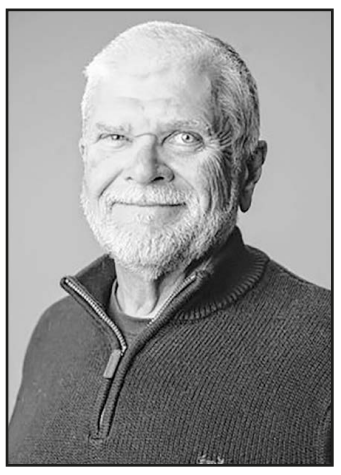
On the negative side, the right rear fender was rusted through, only one of four mud flaps was still in place and the radio antenna was broken off. On the positive side, the radio didn't work (negating the antenna problem) and an oil leak from the V-8 engine helped keep down the dust on our gravel driveway. I was 15 and proud my family owned such a sporty vehicle.

Driver self-education included trying to shift through all three gears before I reached the end of the driveway and then grinding the gears into reverse for the return journey. I gave myself grade points for not hitting our dog (which always ran barking beside the car), for taking out no more than one shrub and for stopping before the car hit the pavement of State Road 9. (My daily score varied, but my enthusiasm was constant.)

That fall I was signed up for a driver education course at school as the first official step toward getting my "regulars" when I turned 16 the following May. Yet, I knew the school would not teach all I would need to know about driving.

For instance, how would I learn to drive and shift with just my right hand in order to keep my left arm free to stick out the window and wave at friends? How would I learn to drive and shift with just my left hand so my right arm would be free to put around the shoulders of my snuggling girlfriend, if I ever was able to get one. "The Torpedo" was perfect for such practice.

My dad was skeptical about "The Torpedo." (He was a Plymouth man.) He estimated the car would get about five miles to a gallon of gas and might go 20 miles per tire patch. Gasoline prices had jumped from 24.9 cents to a staggering 29.9 cents per gallon that summer, and he feared my driveway journeys alone might put the family into bankruptcy.



Bud Herron

Mom also began to regret her purchase — not so much over the miles per gallon as over the shortened life expectancy of the family dog. By Thanksgiving, "The Torpedo" was gone — replaced by a little, yellow Nash Rambler American station wagon with an automatic transmission and an engine that sounded a lot like Mom's sewing machine.

That was the car I had to drive the next spring when I got my "regulars" and for the rest of high school. It was an image-destroying vehicle that my friends referred to as "The Mountain Goat."

The Rambler was (in my mother's words) "a small, sensible car" meant for transportation rather than teenage swagger. That is why I hated it so much. Still, I adapted, went on with my life and soon discovered responsible driving is not just about speed and loud mufflers.

For instance, the seats in the "Mountain Goat" could be folded down — enabling a five-passenger vehicle to hold as many as 15, if two were willing to ride on the roof, clinging to the luggage rack.

I am sure that is the sort of maturity, adaptability and common sense the Indiana General Assembly was counting on when it set the legal driving age at 16. Still, I can't help but wonder what could have been had Mom not sold "The Torpedo."

Herron is a retired editor and newspaper publisher who lives in Columbus. He served as publisher of The Republic from 1998 to 2007.

Indiana Chamber eyes tariff increases with caution

By HOWARD GRENINGER
(Terre Haute) Tribune-Star

The Indiana Chamber of Commerce is cautioning that the recent tariff increases on Chinese goods could lead to devastating effects for the Hoosier businesses.

"We are hearing from a variety of members – from all kinds of manufacturers to agricultural companies – that this latest tariff war with China could have serious business implications for them and even throw some into a fight for survival," Indiana Chamber President Kevin Brinegar said Thursday.

The Trump administration has increased an existing 10 percent tax, enacted last year on many imports, to 25 percent. China has said it will retaliate with its own similar tax increase on $60 billion in U.S. goods.

"This is such a big, big deal for Indiana, which annually exports $1.1 billion of goods to China," Brinegar said.

Among the top U.S. exports to China are gear boxes for vehicles, accounting for $94 million in exports, and medical products like needles and catheters, at $57 million in exports, Brinegar said.

The state chamber, Brinegar said, agrees with a U.S. goal to obtain fair trade relations with China, "but our members are concerned that this isn't necessarily the right way to go about that. Effectively, the (Trump) administration is effectively gambling with other people's money, i.e., their money," he said of Indiana business.

"While the argument is this will be short-term pain for long-term gain, there is concern that this could be long-term gain for little or no gain," Brinegar said.

How the increased tariff will directly impact the Wabash Valley is uncertain.

"We have not been able to get information on how the tariffs might affect us," said Brad Stewart, vice president of marketing at North American Latex in Sullivan. The company makes medical grade latex for products such as stethoscope tubes, ostomy collectors, urinary bags and air inflation bladders.

The Tribune-Star made calls Thursday seeking comment from ADVICS Manufacturing and Thyssenkrupp Presta, both of which are automotive part makers located in the Vigo County Industrial Park.

Steve Witt, president of the Terre Haute Economic Development Corp, said he cannot speculate how any local manufacturer would be directly impacted.

"Generally speaking, tariffs, or even the threat of tariffs, can be seen as a negotiating tactic to try to bring another party to the table to work through a trade disagreement or to engineer a compromise. I think that President Trump believes that any possible short-term pain created by the new tariffs on Chinese goods coming to the U.S., as well as U.S. exports entering China, will be worth it in the long run to obtain a more favorable balance of trade with China," Witt said.

"In a general sense, as a country, we certainly export agricultural products to China, so our Wabash Valley agricultural community will likely be negatively impacted by tariffs placed on U.S. agricultural exports to China.

In addition to the tariffs on Chinese goods coming into the U.S., the Trump administration has also been considering tariffs on imported automobiles and parts; however, the administration has delayed a decision on whether or not to impose a 25 percent automobile industry-related tariff for another six months.

In addition to the tariffs on Chinese imports along with the automobile industry-related tariffs currently under consideration, Witt said the Trump administration "says it is getting closer to an agreement with Canada and Mexico which could lead to the roll-back of tariffs on aluminum and steel that were imposed last year, which is one of the remaining obstacles in the way of the formal adoption of the United States — Canada-Mexico Agreement, which is the trade agreement that replaced the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Whether or not the current tariffs on Canadian and Mexico steel and aluminum remain in place "could have a significant impact on our domestic steel and aluminum industries, one way or another. The ratification of USCMA could lead to additional trade opportunities for domestic suppliers in a variety of industry sectors, however," Witt said.

"Trade wars are tricky things that often lead to unexpected ramifications, both good and bad," Witt said. "On the other hand, should the Chinese and automotive and Canada/Mexico trade situations be favorably resolved in the near future, the U.S. economy could be poised for a significant period of growth the likes of which few of us have seen in our lifetimes," Witt said.

Vevay woman dies in I-74 crash

Courier staff report

FAIRLAND — Samantha Boyer, 28, of Vevay, Indiana, was killed Saturday morning in a single-vehicle rollover crash along I-74 in Shelby County. A male passenger in the vehicle is in critical condition at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis.

At 10:45 a.m. emergency crews were called to I-74 westbound near the 107-mile marker for a single-vehicle crash. Callers were reporting one person had been ejected from the car and another was trapped inside, a news release from Indiana State Police said.

When first responders arrived, they found a female outside of the vehicle, unresponsive and not breathing. Despite life-saving efforts, Boyer was dead at the scene. A male passenger was trapped and had to be freed by the fire department. He was taken to Methodist Hospital in critical condition.

State police said preliminary investigations have determined a 2008 Toyota, driven by Boyer, ran off the side of I-74, came back across the westbound lanes and went off the right side of the road, then rolled several times and came to rest on a side road. Boyer was not wearing a seatbelt and was ejected from the vehicle. At this time troopers do not know what caused the vehicle to run off the road. Alcohol is not suspected, however, standard procedure with all fatal crashes requires a blood test for impairment. Those results are pending.

The investigation is ongoing.

Fatal 1-70 crash again results in only a ticket

Law says simple negligence not criminal even if deadly

By ALEX MODESITT
(Terre Haute) Tribune-Star

For the second time in as many years, a semi driver on Interstate 70 inadvertently killed a fellow motorist and faces but a traffic violation that carries a potential $500 fine.

Indiana State Police say Pierre St. Jean, 70, of Saint-Charles-Borromee, Quebec, is responsible for the March 16 wreck on Interstate 70 that killed a 20-year-old Reelsville man, Morgan Johnson.

St. Jean has been charged with driving too fast for conditions, a Class C infraction that carries a maximum $500 fine but no jail time.

Police said they and a local wrecker service were working to pull a tractor-trailer that had blown a tire from the median near mile-marker 10 just after 9 a.m. March 16.

The effort caused traffic to back up, police said. St. Jean approached the backup but failed to recognize the slowed/stopped traffic and barreled into the rear of a sport utility vehicle that was towing a recreational trailer.

St. Jean's semi continued into the passing lane, striking Johnson's car. The force of the collision pushed the car into a stopped semi.

Upon impact with the stopped semi's trailer, Johnson's car caught fire.

In all, two semis and five passenger vehicles were involved in the accident.

Vigo County Prosecutor Terry Modesitt said the accident was thoroughly investigated by state police and that nothing St. Jean did constituted a criminal act.

"As he approached the accident he was going about 62 miles-per-hour before slowing down to about 41 miles-per-hour when the accident happened," Modesitt said. "So, essentially, we couldn't prove that he did anything out of the ordinary other than just being negligent."

And while gross negligence can in some instances amount to a criminal act, Indiana's Supreme and Appeals courts have ruled that criminal negligence while driving a motor vehicle is only found when there have been gross deviations from the traffic code — such as ignoring traffic signals at a high rate of speed or intentionally crossing the center line without a legitimate reason.

Not paying attention to what's ahead or driving distracted do not qualify as gross deviations, previous court decisions have decided.

"We are governed by the laws of Indiana. And in this case there's not anything specific enough that met what exactly happened in this accident that would constitute a crime," Modesitt said. "The laws have given us a fairly narrow scope to work in this area. Unfortunately, accidents as bad as this one happen where no one committed a crime."

The accident involving St. Jean and Johnson caused a miles-long backup that stretched back to the 17-mile marker where a second fatal accident happened.

Semi driver Joe L. Robinson Jr., 49, of Indianapolis, dropped his sandwich, bent to pick it up and failed to recognize the backup at the 17 mile marker.

He tried to avoid a collision by swerving into the left lane. By that point it was too late, police said, and the semi struck the rear of another semitrailer driven by Michael A. Workman, 30, of Glendale, Arizona.

The fuel lines of Robinson's semi ruptured, causing the cab of that truck to become engulfed in flames.

April Robinson, 45, of Indianapolis, was in the sleeper berth of Robinson's tractor-trailer during the accident and was pronounced dead at the scene by the Clay County Coroner's Office.

In that same wreck, Charles T. Tolbert, 52 of Yuma, Arizona, received severe neck and back injuries and was flown to a hospital in Indianapolis. His injuries were non-life threatening, police said.

Tolbert was located in the sleeper berth of Workman's tractor-trailer and received serious neck and back injuries from the impact of the accident.

The drivers of both semi tractor-trailers were not injured, as both were wearing a seatbelt at the time of the accident, police said.

Modesitt's decision to file an infraction against St. Jean mirrors the decision recently made by Clay County Prosecutor Emily Bookwalter Clarke in a 2017 crash that killed two children.

Clarke charged Amritpal Singh, a semi driver from Quebec, Canada, with a pair of infractions for following too closely and driving too fast for the conditions.

The charges stem from a July 2017 accident in which Singh failed to slow for backed-up traffic near the 16-mile marker on I-70, according to Indiana State Police investigators.

Singh struck the rear of a van driven by Christina Bereda, of O'Fallon, Illinois.

His semi was going approximately 62 mph at the time of contact, police found.

The impact killed Brennen Bereda, 5, and Finley Bereda, 16 months.

Mother Christina Bereda and son Jorden, 3, were severely injured.

Singh is scheduled to appear at 9 a.m. June 10 in Clay County Superior Court.

Purdue IDs at polls a felony? County clerk says perhaps

By DAVE BANGERT
(Lafayette) Journal and Courier

LAFAYETTTE – Tippecanoe County Clerk Julie Roush, five months and one primary election into her new position, found herself this weekend fending off accusations that she was trying disenfranchise Purdue University students by suggesting that their IDs – used in local elections since 2006 – weren't valid at the polls.

By several accounts, including her own, Roush told county Election Board members on Friday that she'd been informed by state officials that Purdue student IDs didn't meet Indiana's voter ID law standards, because they don't include printed expiration dates.

Roush went as far as to say that if Tippecanoe County ignored that and continued to accept Purdue student IDs as proof of identification, she and other county election officials would be committing felonies.

The backlash on social media was fierce and personal against Roush, a Republican, as versions of what was said and what action was taken trickled out Friday, after an otherwise routine and sparsely attended certification and wrap-up of the May 5 Lafayette municipal primary.

One post listed as a "Red Alert" on a discussion page for Greater Lafayette Indivisible, a left-leaning group that states a goal of increasing voter participation, blasted Roush for "moving to eliminate the use of Purdue ID's as valid identification for voting. … It seems that the local GOP is now pushing local voter suppression measures that could prevent hundreds of Purdue students from voting this fall and in next year's presidential election." The post urged people to call and email Roush.

Heather Maddox, Tippecanoe County Democratic Party chairwoman and a former co-director of the county's elections office, was at Friday's meeting and dismissed the most partisan takes. Still, Maddox said she was taken aback when Roush broached a subject she thought Tippecanoe County and Purdue had worked through years ago.

On Saturday, stung by a slew of email messages questioning her motives, Roush defended herself as one member of a three-member County Board of Elections and Registration. (No formal action about IDs was recorded during Friday's meeting.)

Indiana's voter ID law states that a student ID from a state school in Indiana may be used if it meets requirements for other forms of ID acceptable at the polls. That means it must include four things: a photo, a name, an expiration date that shows it is current and be issued by the state of Indiana or the U.S. government.

In most cases, a driver's license, passport, state-issued ID through the BMV or military identification will do.

Purdue's student IDs do not include an expiration date. They haven't since the law went into effect 13 years ago. The county has worked around that issue by checking enrollment status of Purdue students who use their campus IDs to vote. If they have a Purdue ID and university records show they are enrolled, that's been good enough to vote at a Tippecanoe County polling place.

Roush said the issue came up when she recently called the Indiana Election Commission about updating the county's vote center plan.

Roush said she followed up with conversations with the Purdue bursar's office about updating IDs so they somehow show an expiration date. Roush said she was told there was a sticker students could add to their ID, which she said she was told by state election officials would work.

Purdue officials were not immediately available over the weekend to give their take. The same went for anyone at the Indiana Secretary of State's elections office.

Ken Jones, chairman of the voter services committee with the Greater Lafayette League of Women Voters, was at Friday's election board meeting.

Still, Jones said, the county's solution has been deemed acceptable in every election up until now. He said the procedure "to assure that Purdue students are in fact Purdue students has worked and is working."

Let Us Pause to Honor the Memory of

Mrs. Joan Bates Taylor

Mrs. Joan Bates Taylor, age 78, of Madison, Indiana entered this life on May 22, 1940 in Carroll County, Kentucky. She was the loving daughter of the late Raymond Eugene, Sr. and Dorothy Frances Tingle Bates. She was raised in Carroll County and grew up in the Port Royal Baptist Church where she was baptized. Joan graduated in 1958 from Carroll County High School in Carrollton, Kentucky where she was a member of the Beta and Drama Clubs. Joan was proud to have been valedictorian of her 8th grade class and was an honor student throughout her school years. On September 1, 1962 she was united in marriage to Archie Allen Taylor at the Port Royal Baptist Church. This happy union of 38 years was blessed with a daughter, Melissa. They settled in Madison and Joan was employed with the Williamson Company in Madison for five years. Archie was inducted into the United States Army during the Vietnam War and Joan traveled overseas with him. They traveled all over Europe, Germany, Italy, France, Switzerland and Austria. After his honorable discharge they settled back in Madison in 1969. Joan was busy being a mother and caring for their home and in 1980 she began a career with the local cable company and spent the next 25 years as it transferred to seven different companies and she retired in June 2004 as the district manager. Archie and Joan loved to travel and really enjoyed their time spent in Hawaii, their many cruises, trips to Mexico, East and West Caribbean Islands. After retirement Joan enjoyed babysitting her grandchildren. She loved walking, gardening, her flowers, bowling, going out to lunch with her friends. Her annual Christmas shopping with her daughter and family were some of her most treasured memories. Joan died on Thursday, May 16, 2019, at 7:00 p.m. at her home in Madison, Indiana with her loving family at her side.

A LOVING FAMILY

Joan will be missed by her loving daughter, Melissa A. Howell and her companion, Robb Osborn of Madison, Indiana; her adoring grandchildren, Peyton Howell and Jackson Howell; her loving sisters, Judy Lindsay and her husband Bob of Carrollton, Kentucky; Carolyn Brown and her husband, David of Lexington, Kentucky; her loving brother, Noble Bates and his wife, Jan of Carrollton, Kentucky; her brother in law, Ronald Taylor of Louisville, Kentucky; her sister in law, Lynda Bates of Carrollton, Kentucky; several nieces, nephews and other relatives. She was preceded in death by her father, Raymond Eugene Bates, Sr., died June 8, 2000, her mother, Dorothy Frances Tingle Bates, died August 27, 1952, her brother, Raymond E. "Buster" Bates, Jr., died April 30, 2015, her beloved husband of 38 years, Archie Allen Taylor, died May 3, 2000.

FUNERAL CEREMONY

Funeral services will be conducted Friday, May 24, 2019, at 11:00 a.m., by Pastor Mike Hamby at the Calvary Baptist Church, 2632 Michigan Road in Madison, Indiana. Interment will follow in the Port Royal Cemetery in Port Royal, Kentucky

He was the loving son of the late Wilford Eli and Mary Eunice Shaw Jenkins. He had resided in Jefferson County since the age of six and was a 1944 graduate North Madison High School. He attended Hanover College for one year and joined the United States Navy on his 18th Birthday and was inducted on June 23, 1944 in Indianapolis, Indiana. He rose to the rate of Seaman First Class serving aboard the USS Mundy (CVE104) in the South Pacific. He was honorably discharged on June 22, 1946 at Great Lakes, Illinois receiving the World War II Victory Medal, American Area Medal, and the Asiatic Pacific Medal. On August 6, 1950 Ike was united in marriage to Betty Jean NIcklaus at the North Madison United Methodist Church. This happy union of nearly 69 years was blessed with a son, Jeffrey and a daughter, Jill. He worked early in life at the Irwin Feed Store and then in 1950 he began a career with the Jefferson Proving Ground in Madison and retired in 1981 as utilities manager. Ike was a charter member of Clifty Six Volunteer Fire Department and was the oldest living member, and served as treasurer for several years. He also had served as the assistant leader of Troop 401 Boy Scouts of America and a member of the North United Methodist Church where he served as treasurer of the building fund and was instrumental in helping with the building of the new sanctuary. Ike enjoyed going to auction, being outdoors, tinkering and being "Mr. Fix it". Ike was a devoted husband, loving dad and grandpa. Ike died on Saturday, May 18, 2019, at 6:30 a.m. at the Water's of Clifty Falls in Madison, Indiana.

A LOVING FAMILY

Ike will be missed by his loving wife of nearly 69 years, Betty Jean Nicklaus Jenkins of Madison, Indiana; his loving son, Jeff Jenkins and his wife, Tamara of Floyds Knobs, Indiana; his loving daughter, Jill R. trough had been filled with water to soak the trees briefly before planting. Everything that the planters would need had been set out at each section— trees and shrubs, shovels, trowels, rakes, straw and twine.

After the trees were planted, a thick layer of straw was put down and held with twine tied to stakes. Each planting area had a leader who had been trained ahead of time.

After the work was done, the plastic pots and the troughs were piled up and the gardening tools were collected.

At the start of the day, before the planters were released to join their team leader, who carried a pole with the planting area number on it that matched the number planters were given at sign-in, there was a naming ceremony for five of the species to be planted.

The saplings were introduced by Rick Turner, who grew the saplings for a year in a greenhouse; Yukki Goto of Sango Co. in Japan; Joe Machado, director of operations at Arvin Sango; Dan Baughman, president of Arvin Sango Inc.; and Dan Grady, training manager at Arvin Sango who has been in charge of the forest planting from the beginning.

Each raised a potted sapling and said its name, followed by the crowd shouting the name; this was repeated two more times for each tree. Saying the name three times results in remembering it, the volunteers at the first planting in 2014 had been told by Akira Miyawaki, a Japanese botanist who has said he is responsible for the planting of 40 million trees worldwide. He planned the forest at Arvin Sango.

Miyawaki, 91, attended a planting in Japan in April but was unable to travel to the event in Madison, said Goto, who was in Madison in 2013 along with Miyawaki to announce the forest project.

Before trees were planted Saturday at Arvin Sango, the volunteers were roused during the chorus of "Y.M.C.A." played by a DJ, upper right, and led by, from left, Rick Turner, who grew the saplings; Yukki Goto of Sango Co. in Japan; Joe Machado, director of operations at Arvin Sango; Dan Baughman, president of Arvin Sango Inc.; and Dan Grady, training manager at Arvin Sango who was in charge of the forest planting from the beginning. Volunteers planted trees, upper left, then put straw around them and tied the area down with twine, lower left. At the end of the day, lunch of hamburgers, hotdogs, brats and chicken was served for eating in the shade of a big tent before drawings for prizes. (Courier staff photos by Peggy Vlerebome)

"His heart and his soul are joining us," Goto said Saturday, adding a quote from Miyawaki: "Let us plant trees forever." There were two large greeting cards for Miyawaki in one of the tents for volunteers to sign.

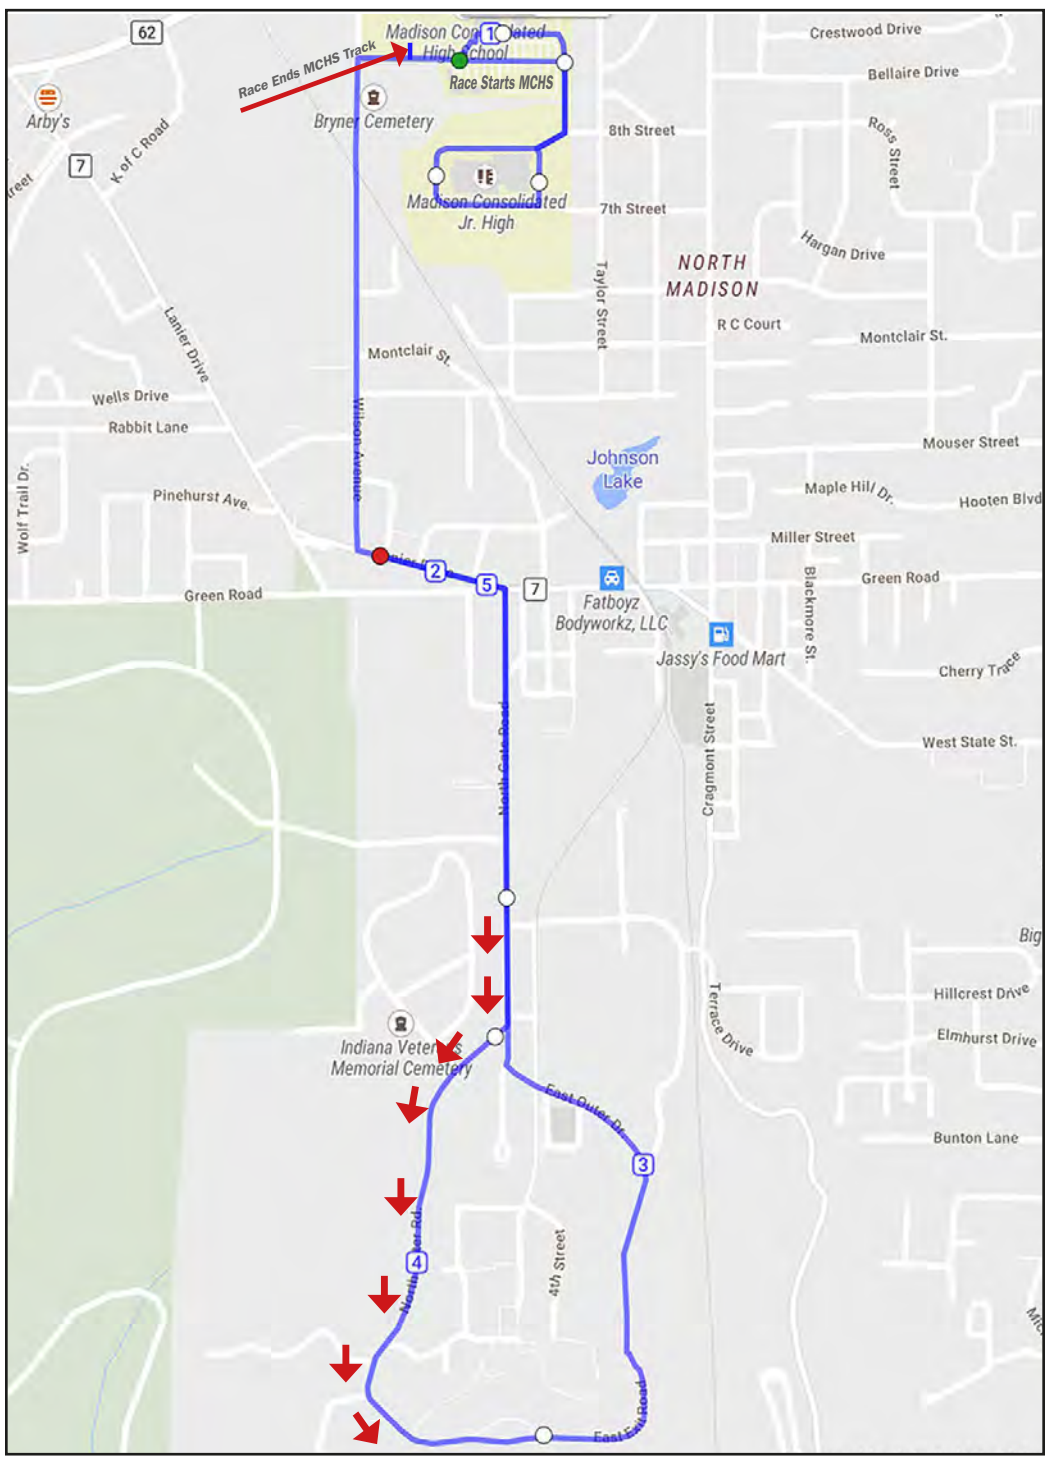
The Arvin Sango forest was planted using Miyawaki's methods and his philosophy, which includes that forests provide serenity and protection from storms, are a crucial counter to global climate change because they take in carbon, and promote health by taking in the carbon dioxide we exhale and put out oxygen that we inhale.

Some of the volunteers had planted trees all six years.

One, Aaron Long, figured he has planted 100 trees in the forest.

A dozen species of trees were planted Saturday: pawpaw, blackhaw, Shumard oak, white oak, red maple, beech, swamp white oak, Northern red oak, bur oak, shagbark hickory, flowering dogwood and Eastern redbud.

The planting day went from warm to hot, but there was a breeze.



$75,000 grant to Regatta for 2019 festival work

Courier staff report

The Madison Regatta and Roosertail Music Festival will receive $75,000 in grant money this year through an agreement between the City of Madison and the Indiana Economic Development Corporation. The amount is $25,000 more than was received last year.

The plans for spending the money include adding a second level and a roof to the judges stand, more fence panels for crowd control, and electrical and water improvements for the festival area. Last year, the grant was spent for electrical upgrades, fencing and waste removal.

Regatta President Matt True and a number of Regatta members were at the Board of Public Works meeting on Monday morning when board members approved an agreement that awards money from the Motorsports Improvement Fund.

This will be the 69th running of the Madison Regatta. It is the first time in 39 years that Madison will host the 115-year-old American Powerboat Association Gold Cup race. The festival will be July 4 through 7.

The new funds approved by the public works board are earmarked for infrastructure improvements and will be administered by Andrew Forrester, community relations director for the city.

Regatta President Matt True thanked those who helped with the grant.

"The Madison Regatta team is working hard to ensure the sustainability of the event for the duture and we're so grateful for everyone who has helped Madison Regatta through the years. We are very excited about the future," he said.

In a news release from the city, Indiana Secretary of Commerce Jim Schelling noted the rich heritage of motorsports in the state.

"The steps being taken in Madison to revitalize the community and world-class events like the Madison Regatta will support the continued growth and vibrancy of southeast Indiana for years to come...," he said.

The 2019 race is expected to feature more than 30 hydroplanes and grand prix boats racing at speeds up to 120 miles an hour. The Roostertail Music Festival, now in its second year, will host bands including Whiskey Myers.

Tickets to both events are available at www.madisonregatta.com

Hospital grounds. Participants will then run a complete loop through the state hospital grounds — instead of heading down Hanging Rock to Third Street and ending at Lytle Park as in previous years.

After the loop through the state hospital grounds, runners and walkers will head back to Wilson Avenue and finish on the high school track.

The 41st annual 10K will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 6, which is 15 minutes later than normal. Check-in will begin at 6:30 a.m. at MCHS.

"I know that some participants want an earlier start, but we have to coordinate with a shift change at the state hospital grounds, and the 15-minute difference is critical to making sure we do not have traffic on the course," said Jacobs.

Registration and restroom facilities will be at the high school track.

Walkers' registration is $15 before June 25 and $20 after. Runners' registration is $25 if received by June 25 and $30 after.

Those planning to participate are encouraged to register early to secure their desired T-shirt size.

Sectional Duel Goes to Daunte

Madison's Daunte O'Banion (left center) pulls away from Southwestern's Mitchell Cline in the 400 dash at Friday's IHSAA Jeffersonville Sectional. O'Banion ran a blistering 48.52 to shatter his own Madison record in the event and rank second-fastest in the state this season. Cline ran a 49.86 to finish second as both advanced to regional. The two sprinters, who both expressed respect for each other, talked after their race (below). (Staff photos by David Campbell)

O'Banion's 48.52 breaks school record, 13 qualify for regional

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

The much-anticipated duel between Madison's Daunte O'Banion and Southwestern's Mitchell Cline in the 400-meter dash proved to be somewhat anti-climatic thanks to a combination of the weather and one heck of an individual performance.

O'Banion won the race with a blistering time of 48.52 at the IHSAA Boys Track & Field Sectional at Jeffersonville on Friday, which not only shattered his own school record, but was also the second-fastest time in the state after the sectional round.

"I was really ready to run yesterday. I've been waiting for it all year and to have it suddenly get canceled as we were walking up to the line kind of messed with my mind a little bit," O'Banion said. "But I just used it as a test to see how bad I really wanted it. To come here today and PR that big, it feels pretty good."

O'Banion was one of three individual champions among local schools, joining teammate Blair Holt in the 800-meter run and Switzerland County's Zach Howlett in the shot put. In all, there were 13 regional qualifiers among the four local schools.

The luster was taken off the 400 a bit when the meet was delayed nearly 24 hours after storms rolled through the Jeffersonville area on Thursday just as the 400 was about to be contested.

While O'Banion may have been nervous, Cline was recovering. Trying to help his Rebel teammates win a team championship, Cline had already run in the preliminaries of the 100- and 200-meter dashes as well as jumped in the long jump prelims. O'Banion, meanwhile, had yet to hit the track.

Not surprisingly, Cline was complaining of sore legs on Friday and once the race started, he was unable to make up the stagger on O'Banion who started one lane to his right.

"It's just been sore the past few days but I'll be all right. I was just taking precautions jumping because I didn't want to hurt it before I ran. That's not why I lost," Cline said. "I don't know if it was that I ran a lot of events or what. (O'Banion) did step it up. I don't know if I had run my best if I had been able to keep up with him. He ran a great race."

O'Banion said he knew he didn't want to risk allowing Cline to pull even with him as they entered the final turn but once he came around and saw that he still had the lead, he knew the race was over.

"I knew that I was going to have to come out faster than last week because last week I was the fastest kid in my race so I knew that if I was catching up to a certain kid at a certain point, I was all right," O'Banion said. "But this time, I made sure he wasn't on my hip when I got to this last curve because then I knew I was running a lot slower than I should."

Cline recovered to finish second in the 200 dash finals a few minutes later, posting a time of 22.93, just .08 behind winner Kaden Sparkman of Scottsburg. He was also third in the long jump at 20 feet, 4 inches and fourth in the 100 dash at 11.51 and qualified for the regional at Bloomington North in all four events.

Cline may scratch out of the long jump and use the 200 as a warmup as he sets his sights on the 400 and a berth to the IHSAA state finals.

"I ran four events today. I'm tired. I'm just going to trust my workouts and not do anything extra to muck it up either," said Cline, who is seeded fifth in the regional with his current time, but whose season-best of 49.18 would be third-best in the regional and ninth in the state. "I'll just focus on the 400 and use the 200 trials as a warm up and then run the 200 just to run it. But my focus is the 400."

"I can't say enought about what Mitchell was able to accomplish. To be able to compete at that high of Ryan Long's impressive sophomore season at Trimble County continued Saturday with a pair of individual championships at the KHSAA Class A Region 5 Track & Field Meet at Lexington Christian Academy.

Long won the boys 100-meter dash in 10.97 and the 200 dash in 22.52, the only athlete from either Trimble or Carroll County to pick up a win. He also anchored the Raiders' 400-meter relay team with Evan Stevens, Alex Nichols and Jace Ogburn that placed second in 45.57 to earn a trip to the state finals.

The top two finishers in each event at the regional, as well as the next 10-best times, will advance to the state finals, which will be held at the University of Kentucky on May 30.

In addition to Long and the relay team, five other individuals and one relay from Trimble County and three from Carroll earned automatic berths to the state finals.

For Trimble, Alex Seward placed second in the boys 1600-meter run in 4:55.78, Stevens was second in the boys 300-meter hurdles in 42.62 and Eliza Weston was second in the girls 1600 run in 5:37.59. Makayla Abbott was second in the girls 300 hurdles in 54.86, Kaci Huff was second in the girls discus at 84 feet, 7 inches, and Abbott, Meagan Kainer, Danielle Craig and Weston were second in the

Rebels repeat as ORVC golf champs

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Austin Kramer fired a three-over 74 to lead Southwestern to a repeat as Ohio River Valley Conference boys golf champions Saturday at The Links at Rising Star in Rising Sun.

Kramer's low-medalist total, coupled with Hunter Mefford's 79 and Trenton Hadley's 81, powered the Rebels to a team score of 334 to beat Milan by nine strokes. Switzerland County was third with a 390, while Rising Sun and Jac-Cen-Del tied for fourth with 451s.

"I thought we defended our ORVC title in good fashion today. A 334 is a really good score considering the conditions with up to 20 mph winds at times," Southwestern coach David Bright said. "Austin played fantastic. To shoot a 74 on that course in high winds playing the ball down on tough greens is just incredible. I told our top three there weren't going to be many birdies made today and that it was going to be tough to break 80 on a par 71 course. Overall, we put up the best three scores and had three make all-conference. I was really proud of how these guys held off a tough Milan team who was looking to spoil."

Kramer, Mefford and Hadley each earned all-conference honors. Camden Ashby had a 100 and Lake Lambert a non-scoring 113 for the Rebels.

Shawe's Chandler Cole shot a 90 to also earn all-conference honors while teammates Trenton Purvis and Jack Grote shot a 114 and 118, respetively.

Switzerland County's Tyler Konkle carded an 84 to tie for fifth and Garrett Demaree shot a 90 to tie for eighth as both made the all-conference team. Austin Wolfe had a 103, Aaron Bladen a 113 and Morgan Gammons a non-scoring 117 for the Pacers.

Shawe returns to action on Monday when it hosts Scottsburg and West Washington at Sunrise Golf Course. Switzerland competes in the Rising Sun Invitational at Rising Star on Wednesday and

Hilltoppers, Cubs both fall in tennis semifinals

Shawe No. 1 singles player Abigail Hill & Southwestern's No. 1 doubles team of Ashlyn Cloud & Chloe Adcock advance to individual sectional

sports@madisoncourier.com

In a match that started on Thursday but was postponed to Friday by inclement weather, Shawe girls tennis was eliminated from the IHSAA Sectional 3-2 by Jennings County at Greensburg.

"We are proud of our girls, but it is a tough team loss tonight as we have been pretty strong in the past, winning the last three sectionals here in Greensburg," said Shawe coach Natalie Hill. "We knew we had a bit of an uphill battle this year, but we did do better overall as a team towards the end of the season."

SECTIONAL TENNIS

The Hilltoppers won two of the three singles matches — including the No. 1 singles to send sophomore Abigail Hill on to the individual regional tourney — but lost both doubles.

Shawe's singles wins included Hill over Ellie Hearne 3-6, 7-6 (8-6), 7-5 and Phoebe Grote over Reagan Brown 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 at No. 2 singles.

"We are so happy for Abigail and Phoebe tonight as they both gutted out great three-set wins," Coach Hill said. "Both of the girls came back after losing their first sets and fought back with overall better and more consistent play than their opponent.

Shawe's Abigail Hill, a sophomore, won her No. 1 singles match over Jennings County's Ellie Hearne 3-6, 7-6 (8-6), 7-5 to earn a spot in this week's individual regional at Bloomington North High School. The Hilltoppers lost 3-2 to the Panthers in the IHSAA Greensbrug Sectional semifinals on Thursday and Friday. (Courier file photo by Mark Campbell)

"Phoebe came back from being down in the third set to pull out her win with her relentless play," Hill added. "Abigail played some really great tennis tonight and her hard work has paid off. She was down 1-5 in the first set on Thursday and then the rain came. Today, she came out and played like the player we know she can be. She moved well and hit her shots with good pace."

Shawe's Jessica Lopez lost 7-5, 6-1 to Hailey Brown at No. 3 singles, the No. 1 doubles team of Kelly Hesse and Lina Leatherman lost 6-0, 6-2 to Callie Wilder and Elizabeth Ertel an the No. 2 doubles pairing of Caroline Grote and Natalie Stewart lost 6-0, 6-0 to Abigail DeCamp and Courtney Lykins.

"Jessica was up in the first set but then didn't play as consistent and couldn't pull out the win, but she has stepped up and been willing to play at that No. 3 singles slot for us," Coach Hill said. "Our doubles teams were outplayed tonight and I know they are disappointed, but next year is a new year. We have told the girls that they need to continue hitting balls in the offseason to really step up their game."

Shawe closes out the season at 6-9 as a team but Abigail Hill gets to advance to the singles division of the individual sectional at Bloomington North next week. Depending on the draw she will play on Tuesday and/or Wednesday.

"We are so excited for Abigail to get to compete at the next level," Coach Hill, Abigail's mother, said. "It will only help her game to continue playing tougher competition and she is excited to be able to do this."

Hill will be joined at the individual sectional by the No. 1 doubles team from Southwestern, Ashlyn Cloud and Chloe Adcock, who went 1-0 at sectional with a 7-6 (7-3), 7-5 win while the Rebels were losing 3-2 to Greensburg to finish their team season at 13-4.

Cubs fall to Pirates 5-0

Madison's girls tennis team was ousted from the IHSAA Sectional with a 5-0 loss to Greensburg in the semifinals on Friday.

Raegan Rigney, Bailey Menkedick, and Ellie Acra each claimed wins for the Pirates in singles play while Kirsten Fong and Sarah Schneider as well as Aliyah Evans and Claudia Westhafer won doubles matches.

Greensburg will face Jennings County in the sectional championship on Saturday morning.

Greensburg went on to win the sectional championship 4-1 over Jenning County for the Pirates' 18th overall girls sectional title but first since 2015.

Hilltoppers pound 17 hits for 1st win

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Shawe softball pounded out a season-high 17 hits to roll to its first win of the season, 14-9 over Christian Academy of Indiana on senior night Friday in Madison.

The Hilltoppers piled on runs through the first three innings, scoring three runs in the first, four in the second and three more in the third to take a 10-5 lead. Shawe led 14-6 entering the seventh when the Warriors scored three runs for the final margin.

SOFTBALL ROUNDUP

"Great game. I'm very proud of the girls," Shawe coach Tim Torrance said. "It was nice to get our first win on senior night."

Presley Coots went 3-for-3 with four RBIs, senior Charity Green was 3-for-4 with three RBIs and Bekah Hillenburg was 3-for-5 with a run scored to lead Shawe's offense. Caitie Duerstock was 2-for-3 with a double and a run scored, senior Kristen Snodgrass had two hits, scored four times and drove in three runs, Grace McAllister had two hits and two RBIs, Jaylin Lee had a hit and two RBIs and Johanna Leatherman had a hit and scored twice.

Snodgrass went all seven innings in the circle to pick up the win, allowing nine runs — five earned — on 11 hits with four strikeouts and no walks.

Shawe (1-16) was to face Borden in the opening round of the Class A Sectional at Lanesville on Monday.

Ponder belts 2 homers but Raiders fall short

Abby Ponder blasted two home runs and Trimble County softball made a late rally but fell one run short in a 7-6 loss at Christian Academy of Louisville on Saturday.

Ponder hit solo home runs in the both the second and fourth innings but thanks to eight errors that led to seven unearned runs, the Raiders found themselves trailing 7-3 entering the seventh.

Trimble went to work in its final at-bat and nearly drew even. Kaylee Payton started the rally with a single and Rachael Liter followed by reaching on an error. Emma Ginn then drove in both in with a double.

Ponder followed Ginn with a walk and the pair then tried a double steal with Ponder getting caught at second but Ginn scoring to pull the Raiders to within one.

But a strikeout of the next batter ended the threat and the game.

In addition to her home runs, Ponder also pitched six innings in the circle and did not allow a earned run while striking out six to take the loss.

Liter had a double, scored a run and drove in a run, Shelby Wilcoxson had a double and Lauren Haney added a hit.

Trimble Count (15-10) was to face top-seeded Oldham County in the 29th District Tournament semifinals at North Oldham on Monday.

Rebels close out regular season 12-2 over JCD

Southwestern softball wrapped up the regular season with a 12-2 win at Jac-Cen-Del on Friday.

The Rebels out-hit JCD 13-3 and scored in every inning but the second to end the Ohio River Valley Conference season with a 4-8 record.

Southwestern scored four runs in the first inning thanks to two errors and RBIs by Morgan Mahoney and Trinity McLain. The Rebels added another run in the third on another error.

The Rebels then blew open the game with seven runs over the final three innings to force the mercy rule. Abby Ralston, Lakyn Wilson and Mahoney hit three-straight RBI singles to score three runs in the fourth and McLain had an RBI single in the fifth.

Mahoney, Olivia Bruce and McLain each drove in runs in the sixth to end the game.

"This was a tough week for us but we played well tonight. We came out hitting and had some strong defense," Southwestern coach Duane Ralston said. "Abby Ralston and Morgan played some great defense tonight with some outstanding plays but really the whole team contributed. It's nice to finish with a win and should give us some momentum heading into sectional play next week."

Mahoney and McLain each were 3-for-4 with three RBIs to lead the Rebels while Bruce was 2-for-4 with a double, an RBI and a run scored. Wilson and Cadence Humes each had two hits.

Wilson picked up the win with six innings in the circle where she allowed just one earned run on three hits with three strikeouts and three walks.

Southwestern (10-11) was to play Austin in the semifinals of the Class 2A Sectional at Switzerland County on Tuesday.

Lady Cubs 10-0 winners at Providence in finale

Madison softball closed out the regular season with a 10-0 win at Providence on Friday.

The Cubs did most of their damage with two outs, including the first seven runs of the game.

Madison's first two batters of the game each got out but the third batter, Hannah Uhl, singled to open the door. The Cubs loaded the bases on a hit batter and a walk and got a run on error. Abby Moore then cleared the bases with a triple for a 4-0 lead.

It was a similar situation in the fourth inning. After opening the frame with a groundout and a pop-up, Bailey Dyer singled and Kennedy Stidham and Uhl each walked to load the bases. Emma Cammack then brought them all in with a double to push the lead to 7-0.

"That's something that we have preached all year: treat every at-bat like it's your last at-bat of the season," Madison coach Tony Ralston said. "Tonight we did that. They were patient and did what they needed to do and we got some big hits in big situations."

Madison's first batter of the fifth, Peyton Holt, struck out, but she reached base on a passed ball. An RBI single by Moore scored her and Moore came in on Keara Eder's RBI groundout.

Jaquira Humes opened the Cub sixth by drawing a walk and went to third on two wild pitches. She then scored on Moore's groundout.

Moore finished the game with two hits and five RBIs and also got the win in the circle after holding the Pioneers to just six hits over six innings with three strikeouts and two walks.

Dyer was 3-for-4 with a double and a run to continue her terrific senior season while Clara McCulley added a single.

"Bailey has had a really good season and has carried us at the top of the lineup," Ralston said. "I'm really proud of her. She's a terrific kid and she's had a terrific season, an all-conference season.

"Abby Moore pitched a nice game and we really played well. It was nice to end the season with a win like this at a Providence team that is traditionally a really good program," Ralston said. "I'm proud of the girls."

Madison (11-16) will now host the Class 3A Sectional Tournament with the Cubs scheduled to play Greensburg on Monday. Ralston said defending home turf is what the team has been talking about for the past several weeks.

"This is a special tournament for us. We want to do well at home," Ralston said. "All we want is to have a chance at the end and I really think that if we put the work in and we're prepared, we can do that. I feel good about our chances."

Hanover's Trimpe, Browning advance to NCAA D-III meet

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Hanover College's Erin Trimpe and Erin Browning have each qualified for the NCAA Division III National Track & Field Championships in Geneva, Ohio, next week.

Trimpe, a senior from New Palestine, has qualified in the pole vault for the second-straight year. Trimpe broke her own school record in the event with a vault of 3.77 meters set on Thursday at the Ohio Wesleyan Last Chance Qualifier in Delaware, Ohio.

Browning, a sophomore from Greensburg, will be making her first-ever trip to the NCAA Championships after she broke her own school record in the hammer throw with a toss of 51.93 meters in the Billy Hayes Invitational at Indiana University last week.

The NCAA Division III National Championships will begin on Thursday and will run through May 25.

a level in these four events is very taxing on an athletes legs," Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum. "His mental toughness throughout the meet was challenged, and he rose to the occasion each time. Mitchell is a big time athlete but what people don't see is how hard he works."

O'Banion also qualified for the regional in the 1600-meter relay where he anchored that team's second-place finish in 3:33.61 after Holt, Nick Center and Jack Kelsey ran the first three legs.

O'Banion knows that he is facing a tough field at the regional but he doesn't plan on doing anything different.

"I'm just going to stick to the same strategy. Practice hard and it pays off," he said.

Southwestern entered the meet with an outside chance to knock off heavily-favored Jeffersonville, which has only happened twice in the 45-year history of the sectional. But while the Rebels had six regional qualifiers, they were unable to score an individual win and settled for second place overall with 87.5 points — their best-ever performance in the sectional meet — while Jeffersonville was first with 108 points.

Along with Cline's three standout performances, Bradley Winston earned regional berths in two events, placing second in the 3200-meter run in 10:25.57 and third in the 1600 run in 4:52.91. Caleb Ream was second in the 300 hurdles in 41.61 and the 1600 relay team of Brandon Smith, Adam Anderson, Ream and Jacob Grider finished fourth in 3:37.27 and qualified for the regional on time.

"I am very proud of all of these boys! I look forward to the going to Bloomington next week and hopefully breaking some records and getting some state qualifiers," Nussbaum said.

Holt picked up a win in the 800 dash in 2:01.30, but not without some controversy. The Madison senior led the entire race, but as he entered the final turn on the final lap, Austin's Chase Rusch decided to make his move and dart to the inside of Holt. As Rusch drew even, Holt attempted to re-take his position and the two runners collided, although neither went down.

Holt was able to recover his footing and went on to win the race, with Rusch running second at 2:02.33. Afterward, Austin filed a protest but it was ultimately turned down.

"Nobody got a good look at it and the official starter didn't see it," said Madison coach Scott Holcroft, who was a member of the protest committee. "They wanted to watch film of it but under the rules, you can't do that. Then it was brought up that if you take three steps over the inside line, then you're disqualified and the Austin runner was close to doing that. In the end, both runners moved on and everybody just decided to let it go."

Madison's Bryce Foy qualified for the regional in two events, placing second in the 100 dash in 11.45 and third in the 200 dash in 23.12.

Howlett became Switzerland County's first male sectional champion in nearly a decade when he won the shot put with a throw of 47 feet, 3 inches. The senior nearly duplicated the feat in the discus, placing second at 130 feet, 8 inches to qualify for the regional in both events.

Madison wins hilltop showdown with Shawe

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier Sports Editor
mcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Mason Welsh and the Cubs' defense carried a perfect game through three innings while Madison baseball rolled up a 10-0 lead on Shawe Memorial Friday at Post 9 Field.

And while the 2-17 Hilltoppers were never really a match for the 8-12 Cubs from across the hilltop, Shawe did manage to dig in and break up not only the perfect game, but also the no-hitter and the shutout in the bottom of the fourth inning of an 11-1 Madison win in five innings.

Seeking to limit the number of pitches Welsh threw on Friday to keep him at least eligible to pitch in Saturday's doubleheader, Madison coach Tim Armstrong pulled his junior right-hander after just 22 pitches.

Welsh had landed in a solid groove backed by some flawless Madison defense to sit the first nine Hilltoppers down in order.

Reliever Trenton Barnes looked to be picking up right where Welsh left off at first, striking out Walker Kennett and getting Hunter Kennett on a fly out at the top of the Hilltoppers' order. But a walk to Matthew Binzer took away the perfect game and a single by Cazden Nott to right field took away both the no-hitter and the shutout as Binzer, who had stolen second, scored on the play.

"It went as a hit but we should have made the play," Armstrong said of Nott's shallow fly ball to right field. "Our kid said he lost it but that's the kind of play you have to communicate on and make the play and we just didn't do a very good job of doing that. Even if that goes as a hit we should have never let their kid score on the play. But he lost it, we didn't communicate, they score a run and that's part of the game."

The run was just enough to take a little pressure off the Hilltoppers, who were fighting to stay alive with the five-inning mercy rule looming. As it turns out, Madison was still able to end the game early when leadoff batter Cooper Yancey laced a double to left field to start the fifth, stole third and scored on Zach Forner's ground out to second.

The Hilltoppers actually threatened in the bottom of the fifth when Armstrong turned the ball over to Gabe True and he immediately walked Nate Pawlak and hit Cole Thorpe to start the inning before striking out Christian Whitham and hitting T.J. Stitzel to load the bases. But a pop up to first base by Walker Kennett and a strikeout looking by Hunter Kennett ended the threat and the game.

"We could have let (Mason) go and finish it out but we've got Jennings and Brownstown both tomorrow. We'll use a few people tomorrow and then we'll rest arms Monday and Tuesday and throw a little bit on Wednesday to be ready for the sectional," Armstrong said. "We got a Gabe a little bit of work and he hadn't thrown but maybe three or four innings all year."

The Cubs, who had lost nine of their last 10 coming into the game, turned in a solid performance leaving Armstrong encouraged by the team's defense and focus — both things he wants to see from his team heading into next week's sectional tournament.

"I thought our pregame and our focus coming over here tonight was the one of the best we've seen all year … and that's what we wanted to do — come over here and play the game and have fun and play hard," Armstrong said. "We just wanted to try to clean up our game and I thought defensively we played well. We just wanted to play clean baseball and come over and try to start hitting the ball on a line a little better than we have been. I thought we did a better job of that tonight."

Madison scored two runs in both the first and second innings on just three total hits and then scored six runs in the third on five hits — including a RBI triple by Forner and an RBI double by Welsh — and an error.

Yancey was 3-for-3 with three runs and three RBIs, Welsh was 2-for-4 with an RBI, Forner was 1-for-3 with a run and two RBIs, Nathan Spencer was 1-for-2 with a run and an RBI, Hunter Ferris was 1-for-2 with a run and an RBI and Evan Chism was 1-for-3 with a run.

Nate Pawlak took the loss, allowing 11 runs — five earned — on nine hits and six walks while striking out two.

On Saturday, Madison closed out the regular season with a doubleheader split in the three-way round robin at Brownstown.

The Cubs opened the day with a 6-5 win over Hoosier Hills Conference foe Jennings County before dropping a 7-1 decision to host Brownstown in the finale.

Madison and Jennings County went back-and-forth in the opener before the Cubs finally got out in front to secure the win.

Madison scored a run in the second on a Quinten Humes RBI single and after Jennings scored three in the top of the third, tied the game in the bottom half of the inning when True singled in a run and Forner scored on a passed ball.

The Panthers again took the lead with a run in the fourth but the Cubs got two in their half on an error and an RBI single by Forner. Barnes then hit a solo home run in the fifth inning to put Madison ahead 6-4.

Jennings picked up their final run in the top of the seventh but got no closer.

Hunter Ferris went the distance for Madison to get the win on the mound after allowing just two earned runs on four hits with three strikeouts and three walks.

Forner and Keeton Rowlett each had two hits while Welsh added a hit.

Madison struggled to get runs in the second game and the result was a 7-1 loss.

Brownstown scored a run in the first, two in the third and two in the fourth to take a 5-0 lead before Madison got on the board in the fifth on Welsh' RBI groundout. The Braves then scored two in the sixth for the final margin.

Forner went 2-for-4 with a double while Welsh, True, Ferris and Chism each added hits.

Forner got the start and took the loss after allowing three runs — one earned — on three hits in three innings with a strikeout and a walk. Welsh worked the final three innings and allowed four unearned runs on six hits with a pair of strikeouts.

Also on Saturday, Shawe closed out the regular season portion of its 2019 schedule with a doubleheader loss at home to potential sectional opponent Borden on Saturday.

The Hilltoppers fell 16-1 in the first game and 18-0 in the second.

Shawe went ahead 1-0 in the first inning of the opener when Binzer singled, stole second and third and scored on a pass ball.

Hunter Kennett started on the mound and took the loss allowing nine runs — three earned — in three innings pitched. Whitham pitched in relief. Walker Kennett and Pawlak added singles.

Walker Kennett started on the mound and took the loss in game two after goingtwo innings while allowing 10 runs, just two of which were earned. Binzer and Nott pitched in relief. Binzer collected the only Hilltoppers' hit.

Madison (9-13) has the most of this week off before facing the Lawrenceburg-Greensburg winner in the Class 3A Sectional semifinals at South Dearborn on Saturday. Shawe (2-19) plays either New Washington or Borden in the semifinals of the Class A Sectional at home on Friday.

Madison's Keeton Rowlett (above) tries to get the tag down as Shawe Matthew Binzer slides into second. Binzer later scored for the Hilltoppers' lone run in an 11-1 loss to the Cubs Friday at Post 9 Field. Rebs' win keeps ORVC hopes alive

sports@madisoncourier.com

Southwestern baseball spotted Jac-Cen-Del an early lead before blowing open the game and rolling to a 10-4 win in Friday in Osgood.

The victory lifts Southwestern to 10-2 in the Ohio River Valley Conference and leaves the door open for the Rebels' first conference championship since 1999. Class A No. 3 Rising Sun, which Southwestern beat earlier this week, was 10-1 and trailing Milan 9-2 in the sixth inning of a game set to finish Monday.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Jac-Cen-Del scored single runs in each of the first two innings to jump out to a 2-0 lead before Southwestern roared back with six runs thanks to three errors and five walks in the third to seize the lead.

The Rebels added a run in the fifth when Talon Harmon doubled and scored on a passed ball and Southwestern scored three runs in the sixth to blow open the game.

Southwestern collected only five hits in the game thanks to 11 walks and five errors by the Eagles. Tyler Kramer, Mitchell Adcock and Harmon each had doubles while Foster Mefford and Dylan West each collected singles.

Bailey Elliott went the distance and allowed four runs — three earned — on six hits with 10 strikeouts and three walks to pick up the win.

Southwestern (16-9) was to wrap up the regular season Monday by hosting Crothersville and open the Class 2A Sectional at South Ripley on Thursday against Milan.

Switz. holds off Trimble

Switzerland County baseball held off a late rally by Trimble County to post a 6-4 win Friday in Vevay.

The Pacers led 6-0 after six innings and were three outs away from their third win of the season. Trimble nearly spoiled the party, scoring four runs in the top of the seventh before Switzerland finally put away the win.

The game marked the regular-season finale for both teams.

Switzerland (3-18) will face Austin in the opening round of the Class 2A Sectional at South Ripley on Wednesday. Trimble (2-18) was to play top-seeded Oldham County in the 29th District Tourney semifinals on Monday.

Carroll wins at Frankfort

Carroll County baseball scored six runs in the top of the seventh inning to break a 4-4 tie and pull away for a 10-4 win at Frankfort in the Panthers' regular-season finale on Friday.

The two Panthers traded runs throughout the first six innings with the Carroll Panthers scoring a run in the first, two in the second and one in the fourth and the Frankfort Panthers getting one in the first, two in the third and one in the sixth.

But it was Carroll that mad the last push. David Duncan led off the pivotal seventh inning by drawing a walk, stealing second base and scoring on Jacob Polley's RBI double. After a walk, Polley scored on Chris Perkinson's RBI single.

Those hits opened the floodgates as Dane Lacefield followed with an RBI single, Luke Staley brought in a run with a sacrifice fly, and a wild pitch and an error scored the final two.

Now leading 10-4, Andrew Shaw easily slammed the door for Carroll with one scoreless inning in relief with two strikeouts to secure the win.

Staley went 2-for-3 with a double and an RBI while Perkinson had two hits and drove in a run. Lacefield had a hit and scored three runs, Duncan had a hit and scored twice, Logan Rodgers had a hit and drove in a run and Blake Reynolds had a double and scored a run.

Zach Clifford started on the mound for Carroll and went the first three innings allowing three runs — one earned — on one hit with three strikeouts. Staley worked the middle three innings and got the win after giving up an unearned run on no hits.

Carroll finished the regular season at 14-11 and is the No. 1 seed in this week's 31st District tournament at Owen County.

The Panthers were to play Owen Monday in the semifinals.

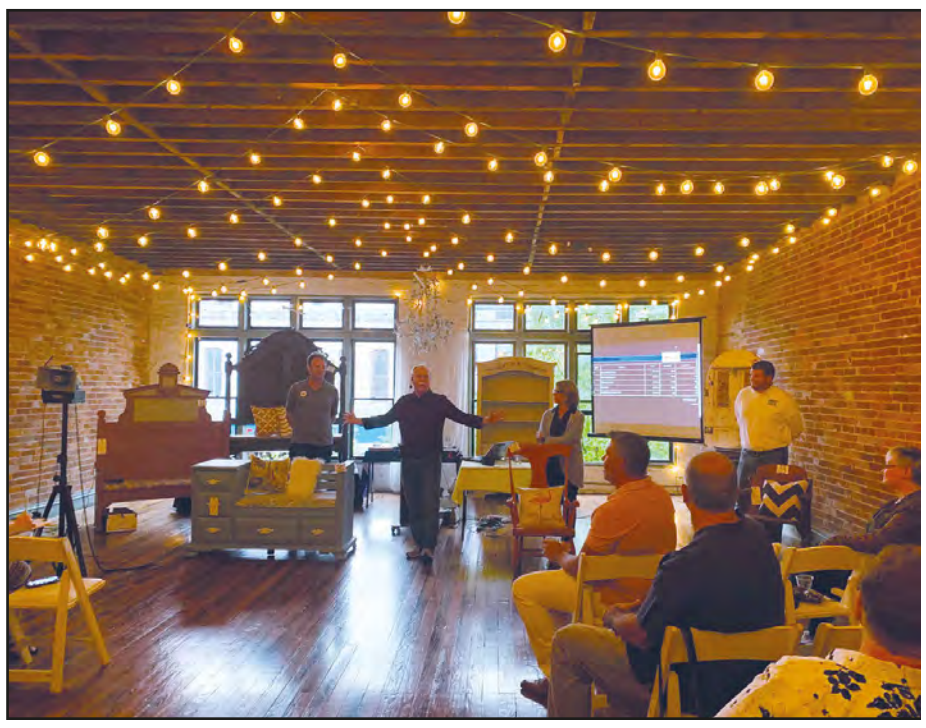
Voices for Children makes 'Art with Pieces'



By TALI HUNT

A recent fundraiser auction raised about $13,000 for Southeastern Indiana Voices for Children, a nonprofit organization serving children in Jefferson and Ripley counties.

More than 100 people attended the second annual Make Art with the Pieces auction on the second floor of the Red Bicycle Hall.

"We always want to do something different with our fundraisers," said Voices Executive Director Tonya Ruble-Richter. By "different" she meant from the day-to-day work of the Voices staff and volunteers, who work with local children to provide them a voice in court when decisions are made that significantly impact their daily lives.

Ruble-Richter explained that they focused on creating a warm, cozy environment with the auction, taking advantage of the location's exposed brick walls and warm lighting.

The auctioneer, Wes Cox, led attendees through bidding for donated furniture that was painted and given new life through 25 public classes leading up to the auction.

Cox, owner of Muddy Fork Antiques and Collectibles, actually came up with the idea for the auction before the first event of its type in 2018. Cox, Kenzie Abbott and Clyde Brentlinger donated their time and expertise during each of the painting classes, helping a local community members with a wide range of personal experiences and talents create works of art to benefit local children.

Ruble-Richter said they had groups of various individuals, groups of co-workers and even campaign groups leading up to the 2019 Primary Election.

Ruble-Richter joked about how she wasn't one with the natural talent to make art with the various pieces and needed the guidance from the Muddy Fork crew. She said between the Muddy Fork team and the supplies they use — including donations from Blackberry House Paints — it's amazing what can be created and what new pieces someone can buy for their own home.

Voices is now serving 190 children between their two service counties. They have around 55 on their waiting list, said Ruble-Richter.

The next training for volunteer court appointed special advocates will take place at the Madison Presbyterian Church on Broadway in June. The exact dates have not been decided yet, but will be announced on Voices' website and social media. (Submitted photos)

Knights of Columbus announces outstanding Catholic youth

Shawe Memorial announced that senior Samantha Legeza has received the Outstanding Catholic Youth Award from the Knights of Columbus. Legeza is the daughter of Pete and Mary Sue Legeza.

This recognition and $400 award is given to a student who live his or her Catholic faith in everyday life. Consideration is given to service to others, spiritual and church activities, participation in extra-curricular activities, community involvement and academic accomplishments.

Selection is made by a committee of Shawe teachers and staff. The student also completes an application for the Knights of Columbus Indiana State Council, which includes entries about the nominee's Spiritual and Corporal Works of Mercy, scholastic achievement, extra-curricular and civic or community involvement, an autobiographical essay and letters of recommendation.

Legeza is described by her teachers as "a responsible, polite and considerate young lady. Though gentle-natured, Sami is not shy. She will take on a leadership role in group activities, but will allow other group members to shine according to their abilities... She lives her faith and truly enjoys helping people. Sami is always polite and honest."

Legeza is on track to earn the Indiana Core 40 with Academic Honors Diploma and will be attending Hanover College this fall. She plans to double major in Health & Movement Studies and Nursing and has already received her Certified Nursing Assistant certification from Ivy Tech Community College during the 2018 summer term.

Rykers' Ridge Elementary awarded for being 'Leader in Me'

Rykers' Ridge Elementary School has been named as a "Leader in Me" Lighthouse School by Franklin Covey Co. This recognition happened because the school has achieved outstanding results in school and student outcomes, by implementing "The Leader in Me" process with fidelity. It is also because of the impact the school is having on staff, students, parents and the greater community.

"We are thrlled to recognize Ryker's Ridge Elementary as a 'Leader in Me' Lighthouse School," said Sean Covey, president of FranklinCovey Education. "Students who achieve the Lighthouse Milestone are great examples of a strong leadership model, process and of what it means to be a 'Leader in Me' School. This school has experienced transformational results by implementing the principles and practices related to 'The Leader in Me.' We are so pleased to celebrate the success they are experiencing."

"The Leader in Me" is a school transformation model developed in partnership with educators that empowers students with the leadership and life skills they need to thrive in the 21st century. It is based on secular principles and practices of personal, interpersonal and organizational effectiveness.

This model states that every child possesses unique strengths and has the ability to be a leader, integrates leadership development into exsisting school programs, helps students learn how to become self-reliant and impacts stakeholders through the staff of a school, the students, their families and the community at large.

"We are honored to become a 'Leader in Me' Lighthouse School," said Andrew Smith, interim principal of Rykers' Ridge Elementary. "We have such amazing results from implementing 'The Leader in Me' process at our school. Our students realize the impact that their attendance has on their academic success. We have seen a decrease in behavior referrals and an increase in leadership and accountability. As a resulty of the culture established by 'Leader in Me,' our students have seen their academic success rise. The process not only has had a signidicant impact on our students, but on our staff and families. And, we expect to see greater results over time."

"The Leader in Me" utilizes and integrates several leadership, social-emotional learning, quality and educational models and process from past and current thought leaders. This process allows student participation in goal setting, data tracking, leadership roles, student-led conferences, leadership environments and leadership events.

This model also uses "The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People," which helps teach a synthesis of universal, timeless principles of personal, interpersonal and organizational effectiveness. Since its official launch nearly six years ago, "The Leader in Me" has been adopted in nearly 4,000 public, private, charter and magnet schools across 50 countries. Educators continue to offer feedback on best practices, which provides continuous improvement and refinement of the process.

Trimble County department and animal clinic host rabies clinic

In conjunction with the Trimble County Health Department Environmental Services, the Phoenix Animal Clinic will have a rabies clinic on June 1.

Dr. Mary Zink will be administering shots between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at Trimble County Park unfer the shelther by the ball fields. Kentucky State Regulations require that animals be vaccinated by the age of four months and re-vaccinated before the expiration of the immunization period as certified by the administering veterinarian.

Any animal owner found not having an up-to-date rabies vaccination might be penalized. The owner may be fined not less than $10 and no more than $100 and each day constitutes a separate offense. The regulation also states that the owner of the animal not vaccinated accordingly shall be liable for personal injuries resulting from an animal bite, if rabid.

Rabies vaccines will be available for $5.

There will also be K-9 Distemper.Parvo combination vaccines for $13, K-9 Bordetella vaccines (Kennel Cough) for $12, Feline FVRCP combination vaccines for $11 and Feline Leukemia vaccines for $16. There will also be flea, tick and deworming products available.

For more information, call Tony Millet at the Trimble County Health Department at (501) 255-4851 or call Phoenix Animal Clinic at (502) 255-0609.

Pain causing short temper with neighbors, rude parents

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: I have chronic back pain thanks to sciatica. I chose to treat it with physical therapy and exercise, and I take muscle relaxers and or anti-inflammatory drugs when the pain really flares up. I chose to forego all painkillers, be they opium-based or synthetic. The problem is that the pain can make me very impatient and snappy. I have to put up with a lot at work, and on the street and with my neighbors. But my mother and father's behavior makes it difficult for me to be patient. They both talk down to me, interrupt me constantly, question and criticize personal decisions, can't wait their turn, etc. They don't do this to my siblings, only to me.

During time when the pain is flaring up, I avoid them because I don't have the strength or patience to deal with them. I make up an excuse, usually that I'm working, although that isn't always enough. My father will continue arguing over the phone long after I've made it clear that I'm not coming. I don't see them much because of this (not to mention other relatives at family occasions), but I don't lose much. Nobody in my family does anything for me. My folks paid for my siblings' weddings, law school, child care for the grandchildren, but since I ask for nothing, I owe nothing. I might also mention that my mother was always angry at me when I was a kid, which I later found out was from a back injury she never mentioned.

Have any of your other readers had this problem? I wonder how people with chronic pain, drugless by choice, deal with impossible relatives. How do they deal with relatives who test their patience? — Pained by Parents

Dear Pained: It's interesting that your mother never opened up about her back injury, and you are reluctant to open up to others about your chronic pain. The problem with suffering in silence is that we begin to resent those around us for not hearing, forgetting that we haven't voiced our pain. While you're not required to open up to anyone, it does sound as though you could stand to benefit from doing so — whether it's reaching out to a friend and sharing with her how frustrating it is to live with sciatica, or being more transparent with siblings and parents about your needs.

I commend you for carving your own path and deciding what's right for you, such as not taking opioids and not talking to your parents when you need breathing room to be well. Trust that you are making the right decisions, and show yourself the respect and kindness you feel that your parents aren't giving you. And contradictory as it might sound, be gentle on yourself for being harsh. Chronic pain is enough to shorten even the lengthiest temper. Lastly, if I hear any helpful insights from readers who have lived through this issue, I'll share them here.

Dear Annie: I've noticed that many people complain about others' talking too much. I taught my children that there's a connection between your mouth and your brain. When you speak, you're repeating things you already know and so you can't learn anything because you already know what you're saying. You have to shut up and listen in order to learn something new. — Educated by Others

Dear Educated: I love this letter. I'll also add this quote from Alfred Brendel: "The word listen contains the same letters as the word silent."

Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud at the Town of Hanover, Town Hall located at, 11 Madison Avenue, Hanover, IN 47243 on June 4th, 2019, at 6:15 P.M. Local Time.
A pre-bid phone conference will be held at 10:00 A.M. (Eastern Time) on May 21st, 2019 by dialing (712)-775-7270 and using Access Code 763186. All prime contractors, subcontractors, small, minority or women owned enterprises and other interested parties are invited to attend.
The Bids must be submitted on the Bid Forms provided and in accordance with the Bidding Documents prepared by Midwestern Engineers, Inc., Loogootee, Indiana.
The Spring 2019 CCMG Street Improvements consists of new curb ramps, replacing sidewalks, and resurfacing asphalt pavement within the Town of Hanover.
The Plans and Specifications for the project are on file and may be examined at the following locations:

Midwestern Engineers, Inc., 802 West Broadway St., Loogootee, IN 47553

Plans and Specifications may be obtained at the office of Midwestern Engineers, Inc. The service charge for Contractors to view the plans for preparing their bid is as follows: 1) Viewing on CD (as portable document format (PDF) files) - $50.00 per set, 2) Viewing by download at midwesterneng.com/planroom - $30.00 per set and 3) Viewing paper-bound printed plans and specifications - $300.00 per set. All service charges for viewing are non-refundable. When plans and specifications are ordered from midwesterneng.com/planroom, instructions for payment will be provided in the downloading process. Requests for plans and specifications to the office of Midwestern Engineers, Inc., for a CD or paper-bound set, shall be accompanied by a check or money order.
The work to be performed and the bid to be submitted shall include sufficient and proper sums for all general construction, mechanical installation, labor, materials, permits, licenses, insurance, and so forth incidental to and required for the construction of the facilities.
Each bid must be enclosed in a sealed envelope bearing the title of the Project and the name and address of Bidder. All bids must be submitted on the bid forms as identified in the Contract Documents and Specifications.
Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check or acceptable bidder's bond made payable to the Owner, in a sum of not less than five percent (5%) of the total amount of the highest aggregate bid, which check or bond will be held by the Owner as evidence that the bidder will, if awarded the contract, enter into the same with the Owner upon notification from him to do so within ten (10) days of said notification. Bidder's bond must include certified copy of the power of attorney.
Approved performance and payment bonds guaranteeing faithful and proper performance of the work and materials, to be executed by an acceptable surety company, will be required of the Contractor at the time he executes his contract. The bond will be in the amount of 100% of the Contract Price and must be in full force and effect throughout the term of the Construction Contract plus a period of twelve (12) months from the date of substantial completion. Bid security of the three lowest Bidders will be retained until the Contract has been awarded an executed, but no longer than ninety (90) days from the date of opening Bids. The Owner reserves the right to reject any bid, or all bids, or to accept any bid or bids, or to make such combination of bids as may seem desirable, and to waive any and all informalities in bidding. Any bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any bid received after the time and date specified shall not be considered. No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids for at least ninety (90) days.
A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.
Award will be made to the low, responsive, responsible bidder.
All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over construction of the project shall apply to the project throughout.
Bids shall be properly and completely executed on bid forms included in the Specifications. Bids shall include all information requested by Indiana Form 96 (Revised 2013) included with the Specifications. Under Section III of Form 96, the Bidder shall submit a financial statement. The Owner may make such investigations as deemed necessary to determine the ability of the Bidder to perform the work and the Bidder shall furnish to the Owner all such information and data for this purpose as the Owner may request. The Owner reserves the right to reject any bid if the evidence submitted by, or investigation of, such Bidder fails to satisfy the Owner that such Bidder is properly qualified to carry out the obligations of the Agreement and to complete the work contemplated therein.
Each Bidder is responsible for inspecting the Project site(s) and for reading and being thoroughly familiar with the Contract Documents and Specifications. The failure or omission of any Bidder to do any of the foregoing shall in no way relieve any Bidder from any obligation with respect to its Bid.

BRIDGE

DON'T BE DISTRACTED IN THE SUIT LED

Bernice King, the youngest child of Martin Luther King Jr., said, "Refuse to be disheartened, discouraged, distracted from your goals in life."

When you are declarer at the bridge table, you know your goal. However, sometimes when the dummy appears, you see that partner has overbid again and pushed you into a contract that seems impossible. Do not be immediately disheartened; try to find a chance to succeed.

In today's deal, how should South play in four spades after two rounds of trumps with both defenders following suit?

East had an automatic balancing takeout double, but he was nervous when his opponents suddenly bid a vulnerable game.

Since East probably has the heart king, South hopes to take five spades, two hearts, two clubs and either one diamond or a heart ruff on the board. But how can declarer get to the board?

South must not to be distracted at the beginning; he has to keep the spade six in his hand, so that dummy's seven becomes an entry. But it cannot be used immediately. Instead, declarer has to cash his top clubs, then run the diamond jack. What does East do after winning with his queen?

If he leads his last club, South should discard his second diamond in case East started with four clubs. But here declarer could ruff high, enter dummy with the spade seven and cash the rest of the clubs. Or, if East cashes the diamond ace, it establishes dummy's king. Or, if East shifts to a heart, South wins with his queen, cashes the heart ace and ruffs his last heart on the board.

Leapfrog organization rates King's Daughters' Health an 'A'

The Leapfrog Group, a non-profit organization committed to driving quality, safety and transparency in the United States healthcare system, has released new Leapfrog Hospital Safety Grades, which assign A, B, C, D and F letter grades to hospitals nationwide. King's Daughters' Health (KDH) received an "A" for its commitment to reducing errors, infections and accidents that cause harm. This is the seventh consecutive "A" grade awarded to KDH.

"Earning another 'A' grade from the Leapfrog Group demonstrates the remarkable dedication of our team members," said Natalie Thornsberry, director of Quality at KDH. "They are committed to providing exceptional care for our patients every day."

Developed under the guidance of a national expert panel, the Leapfrog Hospital Safety Grade uses 28 measures of publicly available hospital safety data to assign grades to more than 2,600 United States hospitals twice a year. The hospital safety grade's methodology is peer-reviewed and fully transparents, and the results are free to the public. For more information, go to www.hospitalsafetygrade.com

The Leapfrog Group is a national non-profit organization driving a movement for giant leaps forward in the quality and safety of American health care. The flagship Leapfrog Hospital Survey collects and transparently reports hospital performance, empowering purchasers to find the highest value care and giving consumers the lifesaving information they need to make informed decisions.
